Economic growth and environmental protection are not at odds. They're opposite sides of the same coin if you're looking at longer-term prosperity. - Henry Paulson

Henry Merritt "Hank" Paulson Jr., born on 28 March 1946, is an American banker who subsequently served as the 74th Secretary of the Treasury. Prior to his role in the Department of the Treasury, Paulson was the Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Goldman Sachs. He is now a fellow at the Harris School of Public Policy Studies and the Chairman of the Paulson Institute at the University of Chicago, which he founded in 2011 to promote sustainable economic growth and a cleaner environment around the world, with an initial focus on the United States and China. In September 2015, Paulson was awarded an honorary doctorate of laws and environmental policy by Washington College President and former FDIC Chair Sheila Bair. Paulson is a leader of the Climate Leadership Council, along with James A. Baker III and George P. Shultz.
